

SAYS POLICEMAN, REFUSED FREE RIDE, BLACKJACKED HIM

"Whip" Owner, Accused of Assault, Vainly Tries to Lodge Counter Charge.

The charge of assault preferred by Patrolman Thomas Twomey of the Mercer Street Station, against Thomas Nunley sr., wealthy property owner at South Beach, 8, 1, his son, Thomas Nunley jr., and an employee, John Dobbins, was dismissed in Stapleton Police Court this afternoon. The charge grew out of a fight that took place last night at the "Whip," at South Beach, owned by Nunley sr. According to the story, told by Nunley, who is well known in Clifton, N. J., where he lives, Twomey, with five companions, entered the "Whip" shortly before midnight and took one ride. Not satisfied with this, he alleged, they insisted upon another for the same price. Nunley says he refused, whereupon a fight started. "One of the men ran," said Nunley, "and the crowd chased him and brought him back. He then displayed a police badge and insisted upon arresting me, my son and Dobbins."

At the Police Station Nunley tried to lodge a charge of felonious assault against Twomey, saying the policeman had struck him with a blackjack. Dobbins, who had a bad cut on the head, tried to make a similar charge. Both were told the charges could not be entertained at the station. It is alleged, and would have to be filed with the Police Inspector of the district.

"I don't understand the reason for this," said Nunley this morning. "My son and I and Dobbins were held in $500 bail each for examination to-day, but Twomey was allowed to go free. As soon as the court proceedings are over to-day, Dobbins and I are going before Inspector John Sawyer and prefer charges of intoxication and assault against Twomey." Twomey denies he used a blackjack upon Dobbins or Nunley.

Berlin Claims to Be Biggest.
BERLIN, Aug. 2.—Greater Berlin, with its latest additions, claims to be the biggest metropolis on earth. Its area is officially given as 337.77 square miles, compared with Greater New York's 307.5 square miles, Paris's 126, London's 116 and Vienna's 105 square miles. Greater Berlin embraces 3 towns, 59 villages and 27 rural estates.

Two Killed by Lightning. PERHAM, Me., Aug. 2.—Howard Holt, a farmer, and his son, Gerald, were killed yesterday by a bolt of lightning which struck a barn in which they were working. The barn and nine animals were killed.
